He claimed they were driving an old dark-colored Chevrolet automobile, closer to 1950 model than 1960 model, which he characterized as a piece of junk. He said neither of the men were carrying weapons as far as he knew. He advised they spent one evening at his place and left, and he had no knowledge of the type of employment they were engaged in, where they had been, or where they were going.

He advised an associate of his named [redacted] a tree trimmer from Canton, Illinois, occasionally checked his place to determine if he needed food or tobacco. He said occasionally neighbors checked at his place to determine his physical condition. He said otherwise he had no associates and had not associated with anyone for about a year.

Re Springfield airtel 8/26/69.

It is pointed out that the Springfield Office, an auxiliary office in this investigation, was instructed to submit daily airtels, since it appeared [redacted] may be in the Springfield Division or his associates living within that division could furnish information concerning his whereabouts.

From a review of information contained in referenced airtel, it would appear that a more thorough, penetrative, and active investigation must be conducted in this Top Ten matter. Although contact with local police is important, these contacts should not be considered all inclusive, since this type investigation in itself indicates a lack of imagination in the investigation. In addition to investigation conducted, your daily airtels are to contain leads setting out investigation contemplated within your division.

You are referred to instructions contained in the FBI Handbook, Part I, page 25, and supplemented by SAC letter 68-14 dated 2/20/68, where it is pointed out that all offices in Top Ten cases are to base their investigation upon the fugitive's characteristics, background, and habits as related

He said that the boy never discusses his mother and [redacted] is confident that the boy had no knowledge as to her whereabouts. He also pointed out that this youth has been a runaway already once from the school and has absolutely no home to go to and that on the one runaway occasion he was picked up at the home of another runaway.

He further advised that the boy does not have a picture of his mother and has the feeling that he is all alone in the world, an interview concerning his mother of this type would be very detrimental to him.

SA [REDACTED] called the above number, when LEO RUGENDORF advised that he may have a good lead on [REDACTED]. He said he was leaving town on 8/29/69, at his own expense, to follow up the lead. He said SA [REDACTED] should hear from him on Tuesday, 8/26/69, and that his message would probably come to SA [REDACTED] through his attorney, [REDACTED].

RUGENDORF said that he did not want any money, that he did not want any favors, but that he just wanted to prove to SA [REDACTED] that he was all right. RUGENDORF said "I don't like these kind of punks and that's what they are -- punks".

On 8/28/69, [redacted] secretary to [redacted] owner of the building at [redacted] Chicago, checked the tenant records for that building and could find no indication that [redacted] had ever resided there.

On the same date, [redacted] wife of the manager at [redacted] stated she recalled [redacted] residing there approximately six or seven years ago. She stated she has not seen this individual since that time and could furnish no information concerning his present whereabouts.

A review of the current Chicago telephone directory reflects no telephone listing for a bar named the Entrance located on 26th Street in Chicago.

On 8/28/69 a neighborhood investigation was conducted in the vicinity of 4370 Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois, and it was determined that that location is now Antonio's Banquet Restaurant. It was determined that a hillbilly tavern formerly occupied this location and has been out of business for several years. b6 b7C

On 8/29/69, SA ROBERT JOHN MILLER determined that the number 1537 Greenleaf, Chicago, is a nonexistent address.

On 8/29/69, Lieutenant [redacted] Des Plaines, Illinois Police Department, advised SA MILLER that his records indicate that [redacted] Lyons, Illinois, was arrested on 11/13/66 by Officer [redacted] for speeding and driving the wrong way on a one-way street and for driving on a suspended driver's license. [redacted] was scheduled to appear in court on 12/28/66 but failed to appear and a bench warrant was issued on 1/25/67. On the same date, Officer [redacted] Des Plaines, Illinois Police Department, advised SA MILLER that he vaguely recalls the above arrest. He remembered [redacted] was driving a Cadillac and was accompanied by a white female whose first name he believed was given as [redacted]. He said this female was rather attractive but hard looking and allegedly came from the North Wells Street area of Chicago.

On 8/29/69, Officer [redacted] Lincolnwood, Illinois Police Department, made available to SA MILLER a Lincolnwood Police Department report reflecting the arrest of [redacted] and [redacted] by his Department on the 28th of June, 1967, at which time both of these individuals were charged with attempted burglary and auto theft. This arrest record was thoroughly reviewed and contained no information pertinent to the possible present whereabouts of subject. The complainant in this auto theft was [redacted] Lincolnwood, Illinois, the wife of LEO RUGENDORF whose identity is already known to the Bureau and office of origin. Officer [redacted] was unable to furnish any information regarding the disposition of this arrest. [redacted] stated to SA MILLER that he was a detective at the time of the above incident and assisted in the interview of [redacted]. He pointed out at the time of the arrest, [redacted] was polite but failed to furnish any information to the arresting officers. [redacted] stated that Lieutenant [redacted] of his Department who is presently on leave due to a death in the family knows more about the [redacted] incident and suggested he be contacted upon his return from leave. b6 b7c

On 9/2/69, SA JOHN T. DOLAN interviewed [redacted] [redacted] Gene Rush Barber Shop, Union Station. who was a go-go dancer. To reach the residence of [redacted] (LNU) you turned left as you came out of the barber shop on North Avenue, walk to the first intersection, and then turn left again. [redacted] resided in the [redacted] side of the street in an upstairs rear apartment. [redacted] had been married but had been separated from her husband and her two children, one boy and one girl resided with her. [redacted] recalled that [redacted] (LNU) was small, skinny and had black hair.

Another girl friend of the subject was a [redacted] (LNU) who was a beautician somewhere in the North Avenue vicinity. She could only recall that [redacted] was approximately 5'7", 165 pounds, with reddish-brown hair.

Another girl friend of the subject's whose name [redacted] could not recall, was the daughter of a Chicago police officer, and this police officer was assigned to the Shakespeare Station. She recalled that this girl was married, but was still seeing the subject after marriage.

Places most frequented by the subject were a bar directly across the street from the barber shop on North Avenue and a restaurant run by a man of Greek origin which was between the barber shop and the Helene Curtis Plant on North Avenue.

At the time that [redacted] knew the subject, he had a 1964 Cadillac convertible with a white top, and lime green bottom. He traded cars frequently, however, but was particularly fond of Thunderbirds.

In addition to being employed as a barber on North Avenue, the subject also had a small car lot which held a total of approximately five to fifteen cars, on Cicero Avenue. She recalled that to reach this car lot you drove south on North Avenue and then turned right on Cicero and the car lot was approximately three quarters of a block after making this turn.

Also on Cicero Avenue was a car lot operated by a friend of the subject whose name [redacted] CANNOT recall. She believes the name of this lot was The C. M. Motor Company, and the individual who was the friend of the subject was a large heavy set man.

[ ] was questioned concerning [ ] and identified him as a close associate of the subject who had also been employed at the barber shop on North Avenue.

Other male individuals which would be considered associates of the subject were a [ ] (LNU), who lived approximately two miles from the barber shop on North Avenue. She recalled that you drove north from the barber shop to reach his residence, but she could not recall any details concerning it. She described [ ] (LNU) as a Caucasian, male, blond hair, approximately 32 years of age who was not employed. She believed that he was a thief. She felt that [ ] would know the identity of this individual.

The individuals most close to the subject were his brothers who lived in the Chicago area. There were two brothers residing in the area. One was at Beardsville, and he was approximately 40 years of age. He had been a truck driver but became physically disabled as a result of taking too many "Bennies". She could not recall where the other brother resided.

The closest associate outside of the brothers was an individual by the name of [ ] (LNU) whom everyone called [ ] (LNU) was a beautician in the North Avenue area and she recalled that he had a wife by the name of [ ] and a daughter who was approximately three years of age, whose name was [ ]. [ ] was of Italian extraction and was approximately 5'8", black hair and dark complexion. [ ] recalled that on one occasion, subject told her that he and [ ] (LNU) had been involved in the theft and resale of numerous stolen color television sets. [ ] feels that [ ] (LNU) would probably know the whereabouts of the subject.

All of the above information was furnished to the Chicago Office and they have been requested to evaluate this information and conduct necessary leads in an effort to obtain further information concerning [ ]

Indianapolis ascertained that [redacted] a former inmate friend of the subject, had been paroled from the Indianapolis State Reformatory on 12/21/67, and apparently directed to return to Chicago. In an effort to locate [redacted] the Indianapolis Office set leads out for Chicago to locate and interview this individual concerning any information regarding [redacted]

The Las Vegas Office was previously furnished a list of 18 different variations of the license plate [redacted] which license plate for the State of Nevada was to have been on the subject's vehicle when he was believed to have been observed at Missoula, Montana, in May of this year. Las Vegas has now advised that a Special Agent of that division personally contacted individuals to whom these various license plates with the variations were assigned. All of those people interviewed indicated their car had never been in the State of Montana and that their license plates had not been stolen or missing. The subject's photograph and aliases were unknown to these people. Las Vegas further ascertained from physical observation that the male drivers of these cars were not identical to the subject.

New Orleans has advised that the subject's true name and aliases were searched through the driver's license division of the Louisiana Department of Public Safety and that no record could be located of a Louisiana driver's license having been issued under subject's true name or aliases. New Orleans advised that Louisiana license plates contain one or more numbers followed by a letter designating the Louisiana Parish where the license plates were issued. This is then followed by another group of numbers. The letter "W" does not appear in current Louisiana license plates. New Orleans further advised that that office had alerted logical police agencies concerning the subject and that a Detective of the Burglary Squad of the New Orleans Police Department, who has several sources known to be "fences" was contacted and furnished information concerning the subject and he indicated he would attempt to obtain any information possible concerning [redacted]

Associates have indicated [ ] may be using narcotics. Insure that all offices in their contacts with informants are utilizing informants with a knowledge of narcotics. Also, contact Bureau of Narcotics Agents for their assistance in this matter.

The method of operation (MO) prior to and subsequent to the Denver robbery should be reviewed. Thereafter, a summary should be furnished those offices where [ ] has been known to reside with instructions to furnish this MO to local police. Since [ ] is an accomplished burglar, he more than likely is living from proceeds acquired in this manner.

In review of subject's file, particular emphasis should be placed on data contained in the I-374 that accompanied the criminal record. Information contained in this criminal record should be reviewed and all logical leads further developed.

Other possible investigation not yet explored is circularization of motor vehicle and driver's license bureaus under subject's name and known aliases.

Since some of [ ] relatives and associates do not appear to be cooperating in this investigation, you should have offices involved consider calling these persons before a Federal Grand Jury in order to obtain the desired information.

Do not consider above suggestions as all inclusive. Continue to press investigation.
